SNEA: The Future of Education

The Student National Education Association had a productive year. The club had a successful student/teacher panel and an AIDS and education panel. Next year SNEA hopes to become more involved in regional NEA activities by sending delegates to represent NNC. Group members include: Jerrilene Matton, President; Paul Tucker, Renee Anderson, Korri Kinney and Marie Schloss.

MTE: Ministry to the Elderly

Ministry for the Elderly has had a wonderful year of sharing God's love. Friendships have formed, smiles have been shared and tears have been shed. MTE is a witness of God's love and grace to the elderly of Nampa who reside in care centers. They provide worship and fellowship to the elderly, who do not have access to such important services. They stand on I John 4:7,8. Everyone who loves has been born of God. Group members include: (Front to Back) Carla Joy, Cheri Wood, Ronda Youngland, Julia Payne, LeeAnn Vaughan, Annette Fifield, Nancy Potter, Janna Vernard, Mark Vaughan, Mark Pierson, President; Natasha Schoonover, Kevin Kehus and Gary Rotz.

WCF: World Christian Fellowship

WCF has what Kevin Kehus, its president, calls a "missionary heart for the world." Their aim as a club is to educate people about World Missions, and to help people find God's will for their lives. WCF has been involved in an after-school children's program, the Latchkey Program, this year. Also, WCF was involved in a drama team, which goes to local churches and presents skits which deal with World Missions. WCF members are: Kevin Kehus, Gretchin Erwin, John Moyes, Jeff Waseca, Tami Cope, Jennifer Snyder and Aimee Hastriter.

NNC Pep Squad

The NNC Pep Squad started the year with a new coach/advisor. During the first week of school, tryouts were held and a clinic for all 11 of the 91-92 squad members followed. We had a very challenging but successful year. The members of this year's squad had some struggles here and there, but we came through strong and held together. As the year progressed the number of members dwindled to finish the year with seven members. We worked on supporting all athletic events by attending the games or matches, and making brownies or cookies to send on road trips. The highlight of the year was our roadtrip to Stephenville, Texas to cheer on our Basketball team at the NAIA national tournament. Words can not describe the feeling of joy and pride we felt when our team made it to nationals! To all of NNC's athletes you're the greatest!!

Squad members traveled with the men's basketball team to give them additional support.

Gamma Nu Gamma

Gamma Nu Gamma is a club which offers a Christian outlet for fellowship among male athletes at Northwest Nazarene College. Members of the varsity women's volleyball, basketball, and track teams can join Gamma Nu Gamma.

Since varsity athletes get so little time away from their seasonal sports, the mission of the club is to provide some form of fellowship for those athletes. The added benefit of this club is that the women form a closer bond off the court, which flows back on to the court when they compete together.

Gamma Nu Gamma officers include: (Front to Back) Brenda Naccarato, Kristin Smyth, Kristie Pickens, and Korri Kinney.

Action Against Hunger Ministry

Action Against Hunger's mission this year was to make a better impact on the campus, community, and the world as a whole. To meet this objective, a myriad of tasks were planned.

On the campus, we helped the students become more aware of the food waste. We put fliers on tables and made bulletin boards to make students more conscious of what they waste. We helped Marriott by weighing the amount of food wasted during a typical meal. The results turned out positive.

In the world, we planned a trip to Los Angeles for a Spring Break Work and Witness trip. After many fund raisers and requests to local churches for help, we decided that the Los Angeles idea was too far and we wanted to make an impact a little closer to home. We then looked to Portland, Oregon, and made contact with local missions and churches to see if there were needs. The response was: "We have many needs, can you help?" We began making detailed plans for Portland and the Work and Witness trip was set in stone.

Our base was a non-denominational Oregon City church. For a week, we worked in two missions located in the Burnside subdivision of Portland, a men's shelter and a women's shelter. We painted, cleaned, painted, organized, cooked, painted and even hosted a picnic for the women at the park near the river.

We originally planned to experience shelter life by sleeping in the shelters, but we felt that it was not safe. The top floor of the women's shelter was not owned by the shelter, and there were prostitutes and drug deals taking place. We ate most of our meals at the men's shelter and some at the other shelter. Don't let anyone ever tell you that shelter food is terrible. We met a cook and he told us that he was a graduate from the Master school of Culinary. He somehow lost everything he had and he ate at this shelter. Finally, he asked them if they needed an extra hand. He is one of the best cooks there. Portland has a good system for giving food to the shelters. The shelters have a right to all the food in grocery stores that have past the expiration date for freshness. This system works very well. We saw basketfuls of food brought in every day.

In the community, we gave the rest of our remaining funds to the Mercy House. They needed funds to help keep the house looking nice with paint and yardwork.

We fulfilled our objective for this year by impacting the campus, the world, and the community. However, we do not have enough support from NNC student body and will have to go inactive for a year. Our club definitely took some blows during the forum at the beginning of the year, and as a result, members of the club this year who made a significant impact to the NNC campus will have to go silent for a year to get the bad effects of this incident behind us. Our thanks to all who helped us and supported us. From: Chad Traver, President Jim Fitts, Kimberly Fitts, Ross Kimbrough, Carrie Crump, (not pictured) Julie Haskett.

Business Club

The Business Club this year worked on many projects this year. Every year, on an annual basis, it is the Business Club's job to publish the student directories. They knock on doors for ads, they search to make sure that they have every student's address, society and phone number. The club worked quickly, because they knew that students needed to have those phone numbers at their fingertips.

The Business Club did other activities such as bring in speakers for the club members. They put together food baskets for the homeless and needy on Thanksgiving day. They also had a big picnic at Professor Beth Schaffer's home in which they hosted eighty business club members.

Business Club Officers are Carlos Antras, Steven Teske, Marc DeVries, and Professor Beth Schaffer.

Student Home Economics Association

The purpose of SHEA is to develop professional awareness and leadership skill through involvement at the local college level as well as in state and national meetings.

SHEA grew to a much larger group this year to become one of the largest groups on campus. They held monthly meetings and planned fund-raisers and found ways to impact the community. They completed a project for the community at a local homeless shelter. They held a Valentines day party, spring picnic and the traditional Senior Recognition party for all the graduates with majors from the Home-Economics Division. Group members are: (Front to Back) Heidi Todd, Nicole Riggs, Stacy Hamilton, Tricia Pelletier, Jackie Schober, Heather Hart, Pamela Johnson, Carla Smith, Angela Smitherman, Elaine Schimanski, Carla Free, Professor Kate Hohmbrink, Professor Liz Murtland, Stacy Clark, Dawn Scott, Jamie Weifert, Tanya Crager.

Best Buddies:

Friendship is their goal

The Best Buddies of America Club has found a new home on the campus of Northwest Nazarene College. Under the enthusiastic care of club president Carlos Antras, membership and activity has exponentialized. Antras emphasized the maturation process that many of the club's members experienced this year. "It is taught me that each human being on earth has a special gift to offer: some know how to listen, some know how to talk, and some know how to play," said Antras.

Best Buddies builds friendships with handicapped people in the community. Club members work one-on-one with each exceptional child, who either have mental handicaps, or have physical handicaps, or are just lonely. For instance, David Malon took his special friend to many of the Crusader's home basketball games.

In mid-April, Carlos Antras went to the national assembly for Best Buddies of America in Washington, D.C. He came back inspired to establish a Best Buddies of Europe beginning in his native country of Spain.

Club members included: Melanie Krumm, Susie Maran, Maite Antras, David Malon, Shauna Rich, and Carlos Antras.

Providence Outreach Ministry:

Lending a helpful hand

Providence Outreach Ministry is a club in which students have a chance to minister with younger students currently at the Hope House. They get involved with Bible studies and play games with the children. The Hope House is a shelter that houses about fifty children and is located just east of Nampa.

Every week a group of about thirty people went out to the Hope house. Their mission is to bring the love of Christ in to the childrens lives who have been hurt by their parents. Two-thirds of the children there have been emotionally, physically, and sexually abused by their parents, many of which are Christians. This club felt it was important to try to show a positive outlook on Christ because many of them do not have positive images.

International Club

This year the International Club did a lot of things. One of our highlights this year was the International Banquet. It consisted with International students from all over the Nampa area. Some of the international teachers also attended. The banquet was a great success. We had international food, music and what more do you need, but international students.

Another thing we did was to have a International Chapel. Students shared testimonies and lead the other students in the audience in songs of praises in our languages. What an unforgettable time that was! We hoped that we would be an example and a great inspiration for students on campus. We attended a Homecoming Banquet for the Alumni of NNC and spoke in churches and had parties.

We had a good year and the International Club members have supported each other like brothers and sisters. They will always be a great supporting club and a loving one.

Club members are: (Front to Back) Susie Marar, Jacinta Meres, Enjoymina Maisar, Aya Windham, Emi Baca, president Christine Martinez, David Malon, Lyndon Shakespeare, Anita Wilson, Maite Antras, Carlos Antras, and Gayla Friberg.

Ministry to Unwed Mothers:

Sharing the love of God

Under the leadership of Janelle Bufford, Ministry to Unwed Mothers was an active, ministering club this year. Every Tuesday members went to the Boise Salvation Army booth and spent time with unwed teenagers. The club was also connected to Lifeline Ministries, whose mission statement is similar to MUM's.

Through Lifeline, the club had several projects. The first was a Christmas bake sale, which raised money for further outreach. The second project involved staging a baby shower for other unwed mothers. "The baby shower was an emotional event for our club," stated Gretchin Erwin. "It really highlighted the goal of MUM."

The club was also involved in other programs. One activity synthesized a craft sale, bake sale, and game time. Another program promoted the goals of the club in card distribution throughout Nampa businesses for Crisis Pregnancy Center.

1991-92 officer for Ministry to Unwed Mothers were: Janelle Bufford, president; Gretchin Erwin and Marcy Dimick, booth coordinators; and Elaine Schimanski, Lifeline coordinator.

Men's Volleyball

Men's Club Volleyball currently has 28 members with 20 active, all-year members. They worked on their skills once or twice a week. They sponsored three tournaments at home. They traveled to two tournaments away including one at Walla Walla, Washington.

These talented men hosted a fundraiser in the fall. They sold T-shirts at the state high school volleyball tournament.

The goals of this club are to provide a place for men to play volleyball at a competitive level with instruction in the fundamentals.

A Day in the Life

of a Freshman

Gene, the average freshman, wakes up on an average day at about 7:40 a.m. Needless to say, Gene makes it to his 7:45 music and art class about five minutes late. Somehow Gene is miraculously alert for about the first fifteen minutes of lecture, but soon he will fall asleep to a melodious overture by Smetana. The next thing Gene is aware of is a sharp jab in his rib by his neighbor Pat.

March of Dimes

February's main event

Every February, students are reminded of the annual tradition of NNC. NNC sponsors a child and we search deep in our pockets and give to help youngsters that are in need.

The March of Dimes fundraisers are activities that Ed Castledine uses to create a fun way to raise all the money needed. This year, students reached an all-time NNC goal. The total amount that was raised for the March of Dimes was $1621.77, surpassing our goal.

Activities are planned throughout the month of February for students to participate in. The most memorable event is the annual SnoBall Tournament. Even though snow has not fallen during this event for who knows how many years, students enjoyed feeling around in the fog for the high-flying softballs.

For two weeks in February, the wing (dorm) competition takes place, wings raise money to compete with other wings for the big prize. There is also the half-time plane toss at a men's basketball game and the ASNNC movie night. New to the annual extravaganza was the sportscard show.

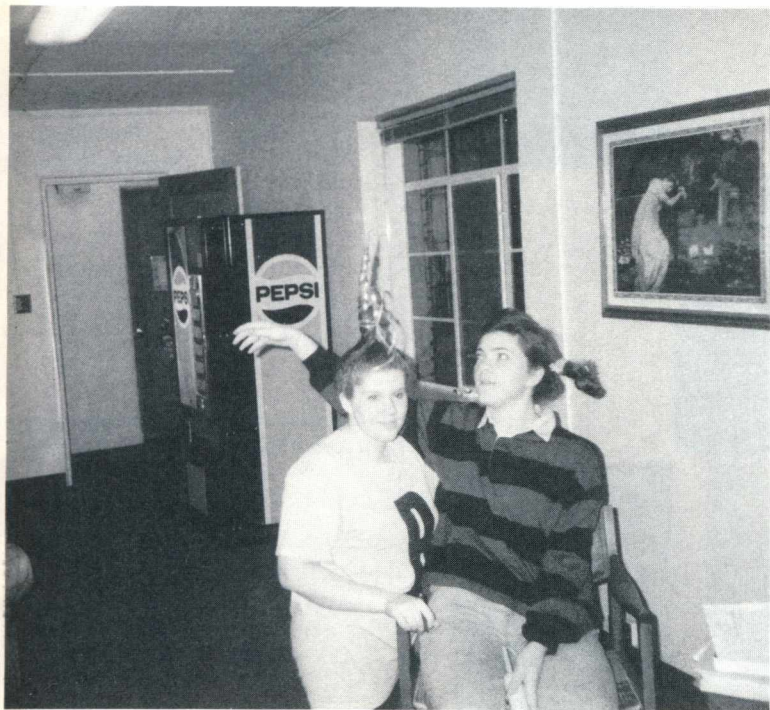

NNC students truly expressed their compassion to the March of Dimes this year and should be congratulated for their great efforts.

Freshman Class Officers:

Bringing to a new classy style

The freshmen class is always a bit shy at first when they meet their first college weeks, but this class took a hold of the ropes and managed to stay up with the rest of the classes.

To start the year off, the sophomore class helped the freshmen get involved and to show them that college was fun. Under their guiding hand, Fresheree gave the freshmen a chance to expand themselves and loosen them up.

Soon enough, freshmen class officer elections came and the bravest and most insane freshmen signed up to represent their class. Following sign-ups, classes woke up to a blanket of posters covering the campus, (showing the aggressive side of this freshmen species).

Out of these elections, we saw a variety of talented freshmen receive the spotlight. Starting from the senators to the president, the tight senate race produced three fine senators: Dave McEwen, Jami Mittelstaedt, and Carlan Westbrook. Christa Swartz took quickly to the position of class Chaplain. Jenny Hicks started saving money for the class as Treasurer. Kristen Dalton wrote the records as secretary. President Sherry Bothum and Vice President Lyndon Shakespeare worked together to create a unified class.

in the life of a Sophomore

Oh my word, what time is it? What day is it? Am I late? Did I miss an exam?

6:30am: Whew. It's Wednesday. No exam. I'm not late. Ok . . . Oh no. Why am I wide awake an hour before the alarm?

6:35am: Brother. I'm exhausted, but I can't even shut my eyes. Oh well. At least I'll be alert when the alarm goes off.

6:55am: Bed sure is comfy. Wonder why I can't wake up like this every morning? I gotta start getting more sleep. And that means I can't stay in Lisa's room until two.

7:30am: The radio wakes me from a sound sleep. I hit snooze.

7:55am: Whoever invented snooze was evil. I roll out of my bed (which begs me not to go) and do a quick shuffle down the hall, towel in hand.

8:07am: Finally, a shower's free.

8:20am: All of my clothes that don't need to be washed need to be ironed as a result of my jammed-to-capacity closet.

8:45am: Out the door wearing and of clean sweats, minimum makeup and a damp ponytail.

8:48am: Did I leave my keys in my room? Into Saga, oops, Marriot, I go. Ya know, I should start eating better. Fruit for breakfast. Hmm. Salad bar has melon and applesauce. OK, I'll start tomorrow. Today, Biscuits and Gravy! Yummy! Sure, it's the third morning in a row I've had them, but I'll do some aerobics this afternoon.

9:00am: Sit down exactly on time in Lodahl's Survey class. Let the day begin!

9:15am: Please, let the day end! Notes, notes, what does this guy expect us to write down, anyway? Is this stuff about the Sabbath going to be on the test?

10:10am: Yikes! I have a chapter quiz at 11:00. Better skip chapel. No, can't do that, I need chapel credits.

10:15am: Oh well. I can be reverent and still study Ethics, right, Lord?

12:15pm: Wow, what a long class. I'm starved. I shouldn't be. I had a huge breakfast. Walk through the line, run the bar code through. Better just have a salad today. Whoops! Monte Cristo sandwiches today! Can't miss out on those. I'll have salad tomorrow.

1:00pm: OK! This afternoon, I'm going to accomplish something! I need to: study for a test, do my laundry, write grandma, read three assignments, work out, and balance my checkbook. Back to Culver, feet!

1:05pm: Well, maybe I'll stop into Kelly's room first.

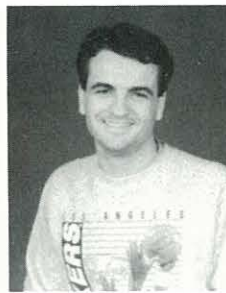

2:45pm: I cannot believe what she just told me! I just have to tell Christy . . .

3:15pm: Christy needs somebody to go to the mall with her . . .

5:00pm: My day is made! I've got a date for Friday! McDonald's and a movie at Karcher. Isn't that original? Oh, well, with a cute guy, who cares? Oh my word, I've got just enough time to read one assignment before dinner. Thank goodness the week's half over!

Partyin', Playin',

Freshman/Sophomore Retreat

On May first and second of the 1991-92 school year, fifty-four students and six sponsors boarded a bus to the first ever Sophomore/Freshman Retreat. The retreat was held at Camp Ida-Haven in McCall Idaho. This retreat was mainly the idea of Sophomore class president Marc Otto, who, along with the Sophomore class council, sponsored the event. Many hours were spent in the planning of the retreat by the council, and in the end they came up with a theme and a name for the retreat.

The name given to the retreat was "The Twenty-Eight Hour Escape". These two days were meant to be a weekend of spiritual renewal for the underclassmen to share together.

Guest speaker for the weekend was Jerry Kester (Youth Pastor at Nampa First Church). Jerry spent time speaking about renewal and much time was spent in small groups. In the small groups there was time for prayer and sharing among the group members.

The retreat was a good chance for the sophomores and freshmen to get to know one another in an atmosphere outside of school. With the success of the retreat comes the potential of it becoming a tradition here at NNC.

Create memorable year

The Sophomore Class Council probably has the toughest job in comparison with the other councils. It has to prepare activities for both the freshman and the sophomores during the beginning of the school year.

This council hosted the freshman "get-to-know-each-other" party during the first week of school. Also, the annual "Fresheree" is produced by the Sophomore Council. Both of these special events took off as smooth as a whistle and freshman were getting to know their fellow classmates well. The council was chosen for the freshman and the Sophomore Council began to concentrate on their class. A class party was planned and hosted by the council. Games and refreshments were served. Students enjoyed Outburst and Pictionary.

The big activity planned by the council was the Sophomore/Freshman Retreat.

This great twenty-four hour escape took place up near McCall.

The final event for the sophomores and the rest of the student body, was the End-of-School Blast at Duck Park.

A half day . . . In the life of a Junior.

6:45am: I hear my alarm, but I don't. My eyelids are soooooo heavy. Fighting them is so unnatural. Getting up this early is unnatural. Irrational.

7:00am: Did I fall asleep again? Crud. Haul out of bed, haul to the shower, haul as fast as a brain in low gear can haul.

7:35am: Okay! Feeling better. Alive. Makeup on. Hair dried. Crud. Better get to class. Grab a Poptart from the ol' munchies drawer.

7:41am: Walkin' to class. You know, I thought becoming an upper-classman would automatically mean that I would have it all together. Organized. Efficient. Cool and collected. Wrong.

7:42am: There's Kevin.

What a great-looking guy! Of course, looks aren't the important thing: he's also intelligent and a faithful Christian and capable of sensitive conversation. He'd probably make a very good husband

My Word!! I can't believe I'm thinking this stuff! I've never even talked to him!

7:46am: What do ya know? I'm kind of on time. There's Julie! Are you and Jack getting serious? Did you hear about Marcy's wedding?

9:00am: This is the last general requirement class I have to take! After that it's nothing but Ed classes, Ed classes, Ed, Ed . . .

9:30am: Crusader choir.

Report to do. Then . . . Veg time! I wonder if Amber's doing anything. Maybe she and Allen could set me up with John and we could all catch a movie.

9:54am: I forgot: I have no money.

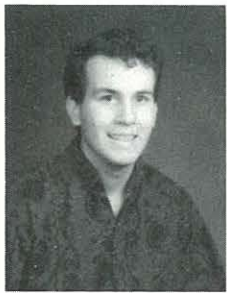

10:10am: Chapel. Fred Fullerton sure was a great guy. Remember how Fred uses to . . . good grief! I sound old!

10:20am: I wonder if John would pay my way. I haven't been on that kind of date since . . . wow . . .

11:30am: Actually, John manages his finances very well. He'd probably make a good husbandOog.

Junior/Senior Retreat

Escape to Bend, Oregon

On the weekend of May 1-3, the campus was silent, no homework was being worked on, and no pungent odors were flowing through the air for the thirty-seven people and four sponsors who escaped to the community of Bend, Oregon.

Retreaters were mountain-biking, playing tennis, swimming in the indoor pool, soaking in the hot tub, putting mini-golf, go-carting, playing volleyball, and shooting basketball. After participating in all these activities, retreaters still had a chance to enjoy Sunday morning brunch and a short devotional.

Erik Nelson said that Bend

"is truly the glittering jewel of central Oregon. The company and night-life were exquisite."

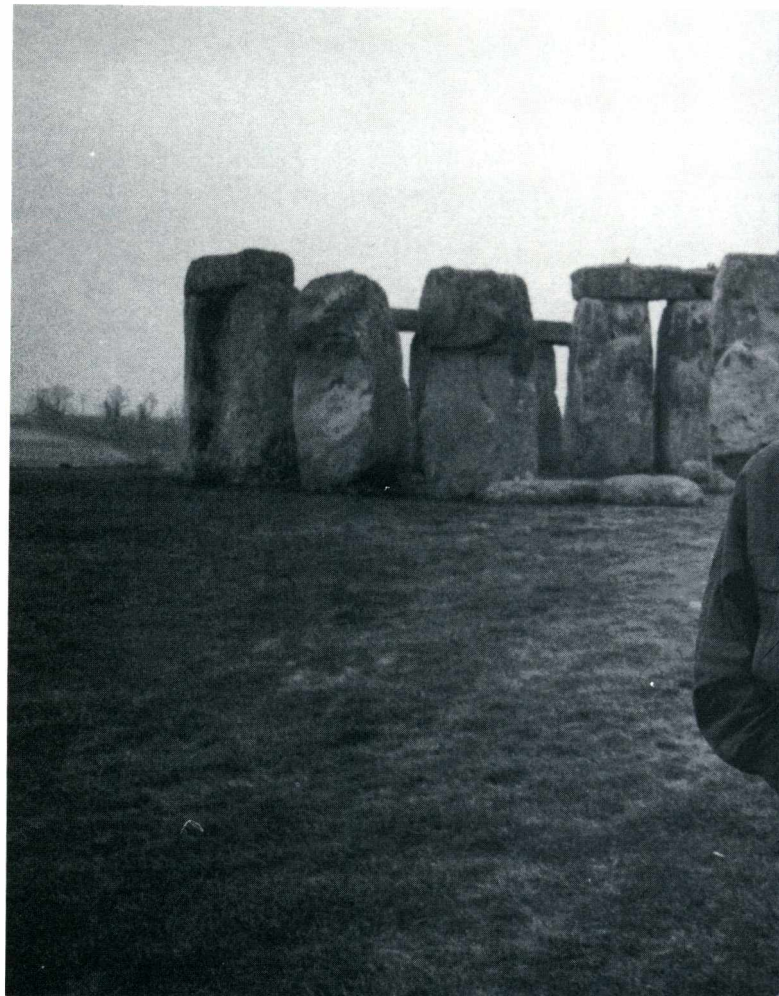

This retreat was mainly a time to relax and be with friends. Lyn Kugler remarked, "I had a really great time and met a few new people." It was a really laid back weekend around beautiful surroundings. They slept in the Bend Riverside Hotel and did some of the activities, such as volleyball and basketball, at Bend Nazarene Church.

Tim Morgan sums it up best. "The entertainment (Erik Nelson) was just the best.

Junior Class Council: Changes traditional year

The Junior Class Council created a spirit of changes this year. This year, instead of the usual Junior Class fun house, the council chose to produce a Alfred Hitchcock movie night. They thought that the traditional haunted house was not getting enough support from the student body, and it had a tendency to drag councils deeper into debt. The Hitchcock movie night turned out to be a hit and students enjoyed "Rebecca."

The Junior Class also sponsored the Junior Class Play. This year's play was the female version of "The Odd Couple", directed by Lane Bottemiller. Although most students do not remember the play, being that the men's basketball playoffs took place at roughly the same time, the crowds enjoyed the comedy and laughs.

The Junior/Senior Retreat was the final big activity for the Junior Class, ending the year with a big bang. All in all, the Junior Class Council provided great entertainment and comedy for this special year of changes.

A Day . . . In The Life Of A Senior

6:30am Alarm goes off; I hit the snooze bar, and go back to sleep (kinda).

6:39 Alarm goes off again; I hit the snooze bar a second time, lay in bed straining to stay awake, but still lacking the energy to throw off the covers.

7:15 Whoa! It's now or never! I jump out of bed, get tangled in the covers that I forgot to throw off, fall heavily to the floor, waking my roommates and the people in the room below. Go through my morning routine. Cut my face shaving, cover the cuts with toilet paper.

7:30 Throw my clothes on, regardless of fashion sense, grab my books and head out the door.

7:38 Forget Saga -oops- Marriott card, open the door again, and grab my card.

7:42 Run to Marriott, slide my card through the handy-dandy laser scanner, grab some napkins and dash to the front line. Grab a poppyseed muffin, wrap it in a napkin, suck down two glasses of OJ, deposit glasses on conveyor belt, out the door, grab my books, and off to class I go.

7:46 Whew! In class on time (well, almost). Nobody minds, though. The profs are used to my tardiness by now.

7:48 After a little small-talk from the prof, I am surprised with a pop quiz! Oh, happy day. After the quiz, the girl I am currently interested in turns around and laughs at me! I realize eventually that she is laughing because—horror of horrors—I forgot to take off those nasty toilet paper wads.

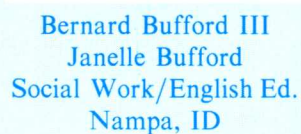

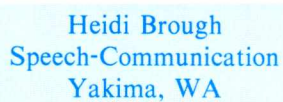

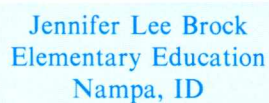

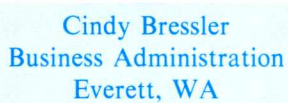

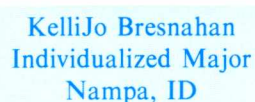

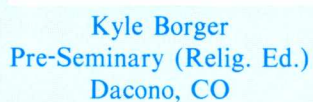

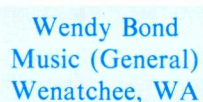

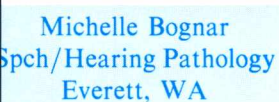

7:49-8:55 I hit the snooze bar in my brain while the professor monotonously lectures about the benefits of paying attention in class. By the way, I put "C" for all the answers on the pop quiz . . . It was an essay test.

12:09pm I mentally awaken with the keyword, "LUNCHTIME!" I look around and realize that I am in the same room, but the wrong class. The Rip Van Winkle Syndrome.

12:45 While chatting with friends at lunch, I get up and prepare to leave and realize what a good food service we have in SAGA. NOT!

Senior Class Council

The senior class of 1991-92 had exciting leadership. Led by class president Dana Erdman, who also doubled as ASNNC publicity co-Director, they continued the tradition of quality service to the school and established themselves as the mold for future classes to emulate.

Behind the tutelage of advisor Dr. Gaymon Bennett, the senior class worked on their priority list efficiently and effectively. Their first task was to come to some consensus on the design for graduation announcements. Their second duty was to oversee the Winter term variety show, Senior Slick. And finally to decide upon the Senior Class Gift to the NNC community.

Erdman said that the class council had a difficult time arriving at a decision for the graduation announcement design, because "they wanted it to be unique and representative of the class, while maintaining some essence of tradition."

Senior Slick was a tremendous success. Tickets were sold-out for the show, which featured Rick Cave and Eric Nelson as hosts. Erdman also said that "there were so many small things to do, outside of securing acts for the show, that required us to work together as a team. I think it stretched us and made us grow together."

Perhaps the most important event for the council, graduation notwithstanding, was the dedication of the Senior Class Gift to the school. The 1991-92 senior class council has donated money for the construction of a barbecue pit between Corlett Hall and the Kurt Finkbeiner Recreational Area.

Emotions Swell at the senior's landmark event

Graduation. It marks the end of the senior's college career. For some it is a bittersweet event — full of tears and happy memories, an end to an era of growth, joy, and pain. For others it marks the beginning of life ahead of them. These thoughts and more swirled through the minds of the graduating class of 1992 as they awaited their turn to walk the line.

Held in Montgomery Gymnasium, this year's Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises featured two of the educational giants in the Church of the Nazarene.

Dr. Gordon Wetmore spoke on the assurance of God, using Psalm 46:10 as a backdrop on his message, "Be Still and Know." Graduates listened carefully to his words of wisdom, for these were his last in the capacity as President of Northwest Nazarene College. Wetmore is taking on the position of President of Nazarene Theological Seminary.

The Commencement address was delivered by Dr. Stephen Nease, the Education Commissioner for the General Church. Nease challenged the graduates to use their educational experience at NNC to "follow Jesus and seek the truth."

Also receiving special honors were Rev. Gerald E. Manker and Rev. Thomas Gifford Nees, who both were conferred with a Doctorate of Divinity degree; Art and Jean Horwood, and Edith Lancaster, who were each conferred with Citations of Merit upon retirement; and students Keith Beshers, Brian Crager, Rob McCaslin, who each received their U.S. Army commissioning as officers.

NNC As A Community

Northwest Nazarene College is a community of persons with a common mission and diverse functions. The college's stated mission, "the development of Christian character within the philosophy and framework of genuine scholarship", drives all that we do.

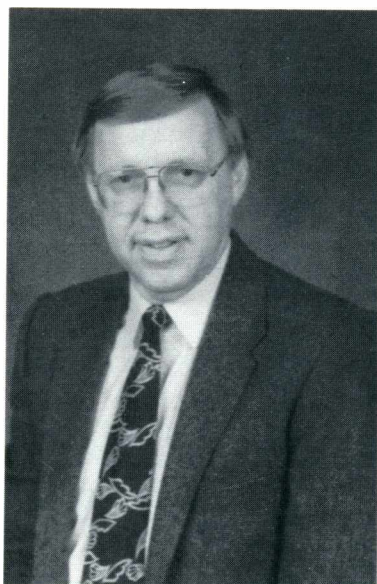

Within this community there is a mix of persons and functions which, when it functions well, receives eager visionary young (and sometimes not so young) people and presents them, upon graduation, as growing prepared educated adults who leave the college eager to make an impact in their world.

The community is comprised of students, teaching faculty, administrative support personnel, staff, administrative officers and Regents. All together each individual is a part of a community, which is designed to result in the transformation of new students into maturing adult Christians with a hunger for lifelong learning. Everyone in the community contributes to, and benefits from, this transformation. The health of the community is directly affected by the individual commitment of each one in the community of Christian liberal arts and whole person development.

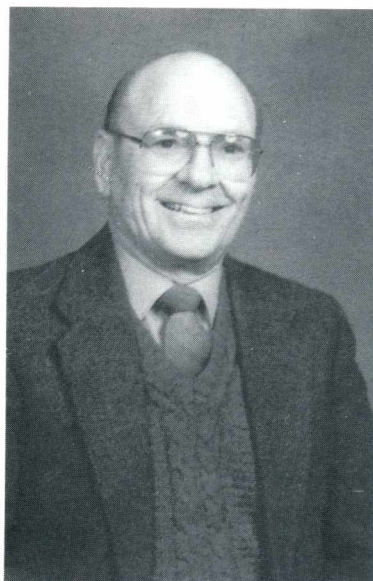

The idea of the body being made up of many collaborating parts is caught in I Corinthians 12:14-26. No part is unimportant in the operation of the whole. Some parts receive greater prominence, while other lesser parts also contribute to the function of the body. The NNC community, as a body, operates something like that. The life and health of the community is sustained by prayer and faithful Christian service. The quality of life and the cherished relationships are the ongoing results. The long-term impact on the lives of graduates is a matter of record.

The key to education is:

Faculty

Northwest Nazarene College, according to the mission statement in the college catalog, "is a Christian liberal arts college, fully committed to an educational process that pursues both intellectual and spiritual development. This pursuit is centered firmly in the Person of Jesus Christ, and is designed to instill a habit of mind that enables each student to become God's creative and redemptive agent in today's world." The faculty here at N.N.C. believes that we are at the vital center of the fulfillment of this crucial institutional mission. Faculty life, when pursued seriously and consistently, necessarily includes duties and responsibilities that allow the professor and student alike to assist NNC in the realization of the mission to which it is committed; this year, once again, has witnessed such an endeavor.

In the last two years, after an even longer period of planning and debate among the faculty, a new and needed internal campus governance system has been implemented. This significant development in faculty rights and responsibilities for internal governance entails more hard work on the part of the faculty, and my colleagues have risen to the occasion. The job of a professor here at NNC encompasses much more than merely showing up to hold class several times during the week: preparation before class sessions is time-consuming; student advising is critical; committee work (while perhaps a necessary evil) is still necessary; and other scholarly work, such as writing and research, is seriously sought after, too. As a result, an already hard-working group of talented and committed faculty with whom I have the pleasure and privilege of working has taken one more essential step toward the fulfillment of NNC's mission.

Each academic year brings its own, unique (and often completely unexpected) challenges, opportunities and rewards. Professors retire; new ones join the NNC faculty. Professors take academic leave in order to further their education; others take needed and deserved sabbaticals. To cite a few examples (at the risk of leaving out others that are equally worthy) of key events involving some of my colleagues this academic year: Professor Ron Ponsford and his colleagues on the Curriculum Committee have performed yeoman labor helping the faculty study our academic program; Professor Gilbert Ford has been named this year's NNC "Teacher of the Year;" Professors Dennis Wall and Marilyn Thompson have once again led the Speech and Debate program to regionally and nationally recognized levels of excellence. Professor Irving Lai continues to inspire in his students a mission and vision for America's urban centers. Obviously, I could go on and provide myriad examples of other faculty colleagues who have written books or monographs, delivered papers at conferences, reworked courses and academic programs, advised students, and who, on "simply" a daily basis, push and prod the college to live up to its mission statement.

A college is only as excellent as its faculty. No faculty is perfect, and NNC's no exception. However, when it comes to our mission statement, fully and accurately comprehended, NNC's faculty is truly exceptional.

Ode to Mr. White

Marriott Manager completes 30th year

As I think about the time that Richard White has spent on this campus, I wonder, "What would cause a person to want to spend thirty years, a good part of a person's life, in a college cafeteria?" Could it be a love for the students, devotion, or both of these?

In a job where the "thanks" are often few and far between, where somebody is always unhappy with something, and where you can easily spend twelve hours a day, Mr. White has hung in there for thirty years!!!

We want to thank you for so many things, Mr. White, that it is hard to know where to start.

We want to thank you for listening to the students and acting on even the most ridiculous suggestions to try and make the cafeteria a better place to eat in.

We want to thank you for directing a unit in a way in which each person is challenged to be the best.

We want to thank you for your never-ending patience.

We want to thank you for all of the lives that you have touched during your time here, which is proven by the many people who see you and say, "Wow!! He was here when I was here".

And finally, thank you for being a friend to us all, a friend we will never forget. We love you!!!!

Signed, Your Staff

After thirty years of Marriot service, Dick White still shows his commitment to students and to the staff.

WHAT A YEAR!

Editor's Closing

It was a good year to be yearbook editor. We witnessed a student fee increase this year, an amazing turnaround in the men's basketball program, a new chaplain in Gene Schandorff, the construction of the faculty lounge, the academic dean's and President's resignations to pursue careers at theological seminaries. It has been an exciting year of change!

Let me introduce myself. I'm Pete Brumbaugh, an I'm a graduate student here at NNC. I graduated from MidAmerica Nazarene College in 1990 with a degree in English and history. The job of yearbook editor appeals to me in two ways: first, it allows me the opportunity to apply the skills I have learned with my English degree, and to become a quasi-historian by producing the annual, which is a history of all (or, at least, most of) the events that happened in this past school year. This kind of thing thrills me! Maybe it's that kind of enthusiasm about the yearbook that others see as insanity.

I have tried to plug into every facet of student life, so that I could get several different perspectives of what actually goes on at Northwest Nazarene College. I played intramural sports, participated in variety shows, even hosted one (they were really desperate), went to SNEA meetings, participated in various clubs, and studied my brains out to make the grade.

By no stretch of the imagination is this an easy job. But I loved this year's experience so much that I decided to apply for a second term as yearbook editor. If you liked this yearbook, then you can expect even greater things next year when we go totally computerized!

No closing would be without giving thanks to . . .

No editor's closing would be complete without thanking a few folks for their incredible help this year:

To Marcy Adams, for imparting her yearbook knowledge and being a big help in times of need;

To Ross Kimbrough, who was God's gift to me and the yearbook, for his loyalty to the task at hand and for sticking around to help me finish this gargantuan yearbook this summer;

To Brad Nelson, whose photos grace just about every page of this yearbook, for his handy camera work and endless hours in the darkroom to make this yearbook the best ever;

To Roger Kadey, for keeping the books and reminding me of payroll due dates, and also for bailing us out toward the end of the year with ad sales;

To Don Curtis, for his innovative ad sales presentation booklet;

To my staff, for their long hours and innovation in layouts and copy;

To Tami Cope, for being my hand to hold and shoulder to lean on in tough times, and also for loving me enough to stick with me through this whole ordeal;

To Dr. Ken "Chief" Hills, for talking with me about leadership and for playing half a game of racquetball with me;

To Linda Swaim, for encouraging me and incorporating me into ASNNC;

To Brad Bergler, for his concern about the yearbook and desire to be a part of it—all over it, if he had his way;

To Rosco Williamson, for having the confidence in me and for sharing my concern for the yearbook;

To Geoff Stands and Stu Decker, for their help in creating the SuperFans with me (Da' Saders).

To Ryan Pitts, for his incredible help in hosting Malibu '92 with me and for bringing a little bit of home back to me (TA-Tonka!);

To Brad Renschler, Todd Kinsel, Todd Frye, Jay Hughes, and John Sellards, for the words "Deedle, deedle!";

To the rowdy guys in upper east Sutherland, who drove their R.D.'s crazy and some of their cohorts from the wing, for the monosyllabic word "ah," which can be incorporated anywhere into any sentence;

And finally to senior senator Mark Vaughan, who was a thorn in my side for most of first term, for spurring me on to become an even more dedicated editor and responsible financial manager of yearbook funds.

Thanks to all of these for all the wonderful memories, and for allowing me to see life from a different perspective.

Pete Brumbaugh, Editor.
