Class Donations Raise Hopes... Bell System

Boom! the gun has been sounded and the race is on. The Freshman Class contributed the first fifty dollars to the all-school project. The T.A.A. and the Music Club have also made contributions.

The Student Council has placed the thermometers in the lobby of the McClurkan Building to register the amount given by the clubs and classes on the all-school project.

Up to date there is $125 registered on the big thermometer. The total amount to be reached is $1500. The support of this project will be the main factor in determining the class and club of the year.

Approved as an all-school project, the electrical bell system will cost $1,200. It was agreed by the Student Council and class and club presidents that points toward the class and club of the year would be given only through support of the all-school project. The money from such organizations must be in by March 1, 1958.

Besides this, bleachers for the football field were suggested by the Student Council to be included in the all-school project. These will cost $300.

All efforts must be centralized in the main project for desired results.

This addition of an electrical bell system will improve the campus and help the college in a great forward step this year.

Rev. Leon Chambers Joins T.N.C. Faculty In Religion Dept.

Rev. Leon Chambers has been added to the faculty at T.N.C., teaching Homiletics and a new course in Evangelism.

Mr. Chambers is a graduate of Trevecca and the Nazarene Theological Seminary. He has also attended Howard College in Birmingham, Alabama. He is at present working on the M.A. degree at Peabody College.

He has served as district NYPSPS president on the Alabama district. He is now in his fifth year as district superintendent of the Gulf Central District, which consists of the Negro work in the Southern states.

Mr. Chambers has been pastor of three different churches on the Alabama district. At the present he is pastor at Himesville, Tennessee. He has served seven years in the evangelistic field.

The new course in Evangelism is being offered to acquaint the student with evangelistic type of preaching. The course will offer a history of the lives of great evangelists. The purpose of the course is to get the student to feel the spirit of evangelism through the study of technics and sermons of great evangelists.

The course is being offered at 7:00 on Tuesday evening. It can be applied on a major in religion and will be a supplement to Homiletics.

Dr. W. M. Greathouse Installed at First

Dr. W. M. Greathouse was installed as pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, Nashville, Tennessee, Sunday, January 26, 1958.

Dr. Greathouse has been Dean of Religion at Trevecca College since 1955. Previously he served pastorates on the Tennessee District at Jackson, Franklin, Nashville Immanuel and Clarksville First. He served as instructor in the Department of Religion at Trevecca from 1946 to 1954.

Benson Lectures Feature Rev. Herman Spencer February 10-14

Rev. D. Herman Spencer, missionary to Africa, will be special speaker in the annual Benson Lectures, February 10-14.

There will be two lectures a day. The morning lecture will be held in the auditorium of the McClurkan Building during the regular chapel service. Night services will be held at the College Hill Church at 7:30.

Mr. Spencer will also be speaking at College Hill Church on Sunday, February 9, and Sunday February 16.

The lecture series is sponsored annually by John T. Benson, Jr., in memory of his father, the late John T. Benson, Sr., founder of Benson Publishing Company of Nashville.

Mr. Spencer was graduated from Trevecca College. He served on the faculty as principal of Trevecca High School for three years.

He is married to the former Martha White of Kentucky. They have four daughters, two of whom were born in Africa. Glaphre, the eldest of the four, is sixteen. She will enroll this quarter in high school. The three other daughters are Hermine, 4; Nancy, 7; and Evelyn, 4.

Mr. Spencer teaches in the mission school, Acornhoek, in Bremersdorp, Swaziland. The Spencers have been in Bremersdorp for the past two years.

Valentine Banquet Is Formal Event

The annual Valentine banquet, sponsored by the sophomore class, will be February 8, 1958, at 7:30 p.m.

The majority of students at T.N.C. are awaiting with anticipation one of the most talked-about and most elaborate events of the year.

Plans are already under way and, as usual, the sophomores are preparing for the "best banquet yet."

As in the past, the theme of the banquet will be kept secret. However, this year the sophomore class is asking each student to suggest a desired theme. An appointed committee will choose the best one and the person who suggested it will be recognized at the banquet, and the person and his or her date will have their money refunded.

This is one of the two formal banquets of the school year. Flowers for the girls will be appropriate.

This is the one formal occasion in which everyone is invited to participate. There will be no special speaker, but the best entertainment and menu possible have been planned.

Get your date and tickets early, fellows! See you Saturday evening with plans to enjoy a wonderful evening.

Divinity degree from Trevecca in 1956. He is contributing editor to the Bible School Journal and is the author of several books. He also serves on the Book Committee of the denomination. From 1952 to 1956 he was the southeastern representative to the General NYPSCouncil.

Dr. Greathouse is married to the former Ruth Nesbitt of Paris, Tennessee. They have three children, Rebecca, 14; Mark, 11; and Beth, 4.

Along with his pastoral duties he will continue to teach some of his courses at Trevecca.

McClurkan Bible Presented To T.N.C.

Rev. S. W. Strickland, pastor of Ridgevale Church of the Nazarene, former student and professor of T.N.C. and personal friend of the late Rev. J. O. McClurkan, presents to Dr. W. M. Greathouse, center, Dean of Religion, and Dr. Homer J. Adams, right, Dean of Arts and Sciences, a bound copy of the speech he delivered on Founder's Day, November 13, 1957, entitled, "Rev. J. O. McClurkan as I Knew Him." Also being presented is the personal Bible of Rev. McClurkan and a catalogue of Chestnut College, located in England, formerly the first Trevecca College.

the Southeastern Educational Zone. Entered as freshmen in college are:

The four new high school students include:

John Hinton, from Ft. Lauderdale, Florida; David Lynch, from Charleston, West Virginia; Herman

New Curtains Placed In McClurkan Auditorium

New curtains have been placed in the auditorium of the McClurkan Building. The curtains are red in color with gray fringe and bold gray lettering centered on the valance.

A drape for the picture of Jesus, Inspiration, has been added to match the curtain.

The curtain, which was installed at a cost of seven hundred and fifty dollars, is a draw curtain. It was necessitated because the Fine Arts Auditorium is not big enough to take care of the play productions. The new curtains will provide better service for this in the McClurkan auditorium where there is a larger seating capacity.

Those who have charge of programs in the McClurkan auditorium, please note. The picture of Christ is not to be moved from its place during programs. Since the new drape has been added it is only to be taken down for cleaning.

Salk Vaccine Shots Being Offered Students

"Inject now and insure later," stated Mrs. Linda Spalding, school nurse, in regard to the polio shots now being given at T.N.C.

The polio shots will "insure protection from crippling," although a person may contact polio after receiving the shots. However, he is not so susceptible to polio as before.

Three shots are given in a series—one, another a month later, and another seven months later. The first two have no effect without the third.

Offered on campus for ninety cents a shot, they last for an indefinite length of time.

Polio is a high-tolling disease today, and Mrs. Spalding says, "I cannot urge you strongly enough how important these shots are."

Rev. Keys And Trio Tour Florida

The Trevecca Girls' Treble Trio left for the first tour of the new year, January 9. This trio, consisting of Patsy Decker, Edna Rushing, and Justine Rushing, will tour Florida in the interest of Trevecca Nazarene College.

Accompanied by the field representative and wife, Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Keys, Sr., the trio will go to Hernando, Miami, Ft. Lauderdale, West Hollywood, Bartow, Lakeland, Clearwater, Sarasota, Arcadia, Sebring, Ocala, Tampa, and Lake City, Florida.

Fatsy, junior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Decker, 905 West Cahal Avenue, Nashville. She was born in Nashville and has attended Trevecca since her sophomore year in high school, graduating from Trevecca High School.

Edna and Justine Rushing are the daughters of Rev. and Mrs. O. C. Rushing, Sr., pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Bluefield, West Virginia. Both girls were born in Nashville, Tennessee. Edna, freshman, graduated from Wells High School, in Newell, West Virginia; Justine, sophomore, graduated from Collins High School in Oak Hill, West Virginia.

Rev. Keys will present the program of the school; Edna will play the piano; Justine, the organ; and Patsy will direct the music.

College Must Serve

The church-related colleges have a momentous task.

Prof. Roland Frye, Emory University, said that the church-related college can contribute to the redemption of our society. The church-related college can break the secular demand of our times.

Trevecca Nazarene College has the distinction of being a church-supported college. The fact of being a church-related college places many responsibilities upon the faculty and students.

Trevecca has the responsibility of offering to her students a well-rounded academic program—one in which students can be trained to enter the various fields of service. The college is fulfilling this purpose. Current plans to increase the faculty and courses offer more encouragement.

To train young men and women as leaders for the Church of the Nazarene is another responsibility of the college. T.N.C. would fail in its purpose and shirk its responsibility if the doctrines and standards of the church were not taught its students. Students graduating from a church-related college should go out not only as qualified workers in a field of labor but also as witnesses for Christ.

Trevecca Nazarene College is meeting both of these responsibilities. Efficient church workers as well as workers qualified in other fields are being produced at Trevecca.

It is tragic that some of the church-related colleges are forgetting their churches. And some of the churches are forgetting their colleges. This is not so of Trevecca—the college is enjoying a close relationship with the Church of the Nazarene.

Modern Miracle Drug

Overshadowing all other medical discoveries of recent years, the Salk polio vaccine continues to decrease polio cases in the United States.

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said, "Although there was a dramatic drop in polio cases last year, an epidemic this year among the millions of unvaccinated persons is still possible."

The failure of some to take advantage of medicine's modern miracle becomes tragedy as one looks at children lying paralyzed in respirators in the polio clinics.

The people who have had the three Salk shots can be virtually assured they will not be crippled by polio. The vaccine does not prevent polio, but it does prevent the paralytic effect of polio.

During the first 10 months of 1955 there were 7,886 cases; during the same period last year there were only 1,576. About sixty-three million Americans have been vaccinated against polio during the interim of two years.

The government announced that the Salk anti-poliomyelitis vaccine has been largely responsible for reducing the incidence of this paralytic disease 80 per cent over the past two years.

The Salk vaccine shots are being provided for TNC students. The shots have to be taken before they can take effect. Have you had yours? It may mean the difference between immunity or being a victim of paralytic polio.

All-School Project Rings A Challenge

To have or not to have—that is the challenge that confronts the students at TNC now.

Should we have an electrical bell system to improve the method used in announcing the beginning and ending of classes, or should we continue on with the inadequate system used at the present?

All are familiar with the system which consists of the big bell and tower located in front of the Administration Building. This bell has served faithfully over the past years. A nostalgic feeling arises with the thought of giving up the old bell, but tradition must not stand in the way of progress.

Through the means of the all-school project, $1,200 is to be obtained to install the new electrical bell system. Several of the classes and clubs have already responded to the call. The freshman class leads in amount donated.

There need not be any elaboration on the need of a new system, as everyone on campus is familiar with the inadequacy of the present bell.

Students, what must you do? Support your class and club in this all-school project. Remember this project will be the main determinant in choosing the class and club of the year.

To: Dr. William Greathouse

January 29, 1958

Dear Dr. Greathouse,

We have heard that you accepted the call to be pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, Nashville, Tennessee.

Dr. Greathouse, our hearts are grieved at your leaving, although we understand that you will still be teaching a few of your classes. We have certainly enjoyed having you as our Dean of Religion. Your classes have always been inspiring. Your lectures have been refreshing to our hungry souls. You will never be able to realize just how much you have meant to us.

You can see why we dislike to see you go, and naturally we would ask you to stay. But, Dr. Greathouse, while we can't always understand God's plans, we are confident that you know what God's will is for your life. Your dedicated life has proved your devotion to God.

We are glad that you were given the vote of confidence by the church. We know that you are worthy of it. We also realize that there is a great work to be done at First Church.

Although we are going to miss you, we will continue to pray for you. And while you are out working at your new job, following God's leading, remember that we at Trevecca love you.

We do not want to turn loose of the gem that God let us have for a little while, but we do thank Him for permitting us to have you these past few years.

God bless you, Dr. Greathouse. We are behind you.

Servants in Christ,
 The Student Body
 (Trevecca Nazarene College)

A Wise Change

Last year, after much planning and discussion, the athletic association of Trevecca changed from class competition to societies. The new plan was to have three societies, being the Alphas, Betas, and Deltas. Each society fields a team in each of the four sports.

This changeover proved very successful during football. Stronger competition was created with more equal teams.

The new plan is still under the testing period. Basketball games will help to prove that the change was wise.

Do your best to make this new athletic program a success.

Why Didn't I Take Salk Vaccine?

Magazine Praises Nazarene Tithers

In the current issue of READERS DIGEST, Modern Tithing—A Vital Revival, the Church of the Nazarene is compared with some of the larger denominations on tithing.

The article states that the Nazarenes, who have always observed tithing, are giving from $4 to $7 per family per week to their churches in contrast to the 50 to 80 cents per week contributed by families in the larger and richer churches.

Modern tithing, founded on the ancient Biblical principle of returning one tenth to the Lord, has kindled a revolution which is revivifying American Protestant churches both spiritually and physically.

While the basis of tithing is found in the Old Testament, it is also taught in the New Testament. It is not something that is a new-found practice of worship. It has just been neglected so long by many of the churches.

Episcopal Bishop Everett Holland Jones of San Antonio summed up this tremendous renaissance as a "revolution in which giving now assumes spiritual proportions. Its greatest result is the commitment of the whole person—time, talents, and treasure."

you ever feel that your last ounce of strength had ebbed, as the tide of the ocean, leaving you huddled helplessly on the beach of the ocean of life? You lay there, oblivious of the activities around you, unable to lift your head, and had not the courage to think beyond the present moment. If only time would stand still for a brief while, 'til you could again gain a foothold and take your place with those who are tramping steadily toward the goal at the end of life's road! But no, time marches on, and still you lie there — waiting. Then there comes to your remembrance the fact that there is hope — you seemed to have forgotten for a moment, but there it is! You look up to Heaven and take hold of that precious promise, "My grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness." You believe that with all your heart and, as you lie there, you feel the strength again surging through your being and you rise up and stand straight and tall, on both feet, confident that your Heavenly Father is there beside you and will always be there to help you along when you stumble. You are once again buoyant and confident, unafraid of the future and what it may hold.

Time Moves On

Time waits for no one,
 It passes you by,
 It flows on forever

CWA Members Minister To 5,093 During Fall Quarter

By JANEY LITTLE

Did you know—
That the Christian Workers' Association ministered to more than 5,093 people during the Fall Quarter?
That 272 persons were saved and gave testimony to a change of heart and a desire to effect a change of life?
That 176 other persons received spiritual help?
That approximately 80 students go out weekly to our 14 preaching and ministering points to carry the gospel message?
This is the job that is being done. Have you had a part in it? Can you remember the glory which crossed that drunkard's face when he rose from his knees at the street service? Was it your privilege to lift your voice in prayer and help drive back the forces of evil so that the hopeless dejection of that father in the city jail could be transformed by the power of God into renewed confidence in himself to live a respectable life by God's help? Did you take a loving smile and comforting words to the aged and lonely in the rest homes? Did the young faces at T. P. S. and Jordon challenge your heart to new effort in an attempt to save whole lives for the Master's use?
These are your privileges. Every week fourteen doors of opportunity for Christian service open for us but they close—oh, so quickly. Enter them while you may and win for the Master.

Meet Pat Losey, a Christian Worker.

Special emphasis may be placed on either the word Christian or worker, for Pat is both. Her straightforward testimony is given added power by her unquestioned character and pleasant demeanor.
She is a worker, present and faithful to the appointed post and ready to help and boost in other C. W. A. services. Her valuable contribution to the organization was recognized in part when she was elected as follow-up secretary. The purpose of this post is to send literature and encouraging mimeographed and personal letters to converts.

The hospital is the present task upon which Pat's attention is focused. She considers it our most challenging work, although she enjoys the Saturday evening street service and the service at the City Workhouse. As captain at the hospital Pat solicits workers and guides them in personal work with the patients during regular visiting hours on Sunday afternoon.

Lonely hospitalized people appreciate smiling young friends coming with words of encouragement. Their position brings solemn thought to mind and often they are very receptive to the gospel message. However, Rev. Ralph Lee, past president of CWA, urges that the Christian worker be prayed up and Scripture-wise, for this type of personal dealing will challenge the best one has to offer. Wide personality differences and various religious backgrounds will be encountered. Results are gratifying; our records show thrilling cases of saving and healing power.

Meet Winston Hatcliff, a Christian Worker.

"I have a job to be done," said Rex Houston, C. W. A. President at a council meeting. "Any volunteers?"

Winston Hatcliff took the job, but this was not surprise to anyone. He is one of the "always ready" men of the C. W. A. and his concern for souls has made him an active participant in many phases of C. W. A. activity.

He has served as captain of Friday evening street service and co-captain of the colored work. The street services and City Workhouse challenge Winston most because of their opportunities for personal dealings with souls. Speaking directly to needy persons increases boldness in witnessing, he says, and deepens sincerity in prayer and Bible study. One must "know" and "pray" to be most effective.

Winston is also a visitation secretary with follow-up responsibilities for the persons whose names are turned in after conversion. We work to help them preserve their new-found victory in Christ.

Hats off to Pat and Winston for jobs well done.

Helps For Christian Workers On Sale

The Book of the Week is Practical Help for Christian Workers, edited by Don Wardell.

The main part of the book consists of teaching the student how to index and file. Other subjects included are helps on writing term papers, typing guide, and other practical helps for the Christian worker.

Mr. Wardell, from Ontario, Canada, has sold over 2,000 copies of this book in religious schools across the nation. The author is the son of an Evangelical Baptist pastor. He spent four years in the Canadian Army. It was while in the service that he began this book. He was graduated from London Bible Institute in 1949.

The bookstore is selling this book for $1.00.

Rev. Galloway Teacher, Pastor To Students

Rev. Claude W. Galloway, the pastor of College Hill Church of the Nazarene, is teaching in his ninth year at T.N.C.

Mr. Galloway received the A.B. degree from Asbury College. He was graduated from the Nazarene Theological Seminary with a B. D.

Professor Galloway's teaching has been in the religion and speech departments. He is at present teaching New Testament and Religion and Life.

He has been pastor at Jackson, Mississippi; Cookeville, Tennessee; and Fatherland Street Church of the Nazarene in Nashville.

College Hill Church is the home church for many students. Its location near the campus makes it very convenient. Several students hold offices in the Sunday school and NYPS departments.

The President Speaks

Education Part Of World's Wealth

DR. A. B. MACKEY

Education is a factor of wealth. Dr. U. P. Claxton would say that it is one of the three factors of wealth, the other two factors being native ability and natural resources. Education is the only one of the three which can be increased by the efforts of man.

Education that does not take God into account is not a producer of permanent wealth. We must have Christian education to both produce and preserve the wealth of the world.

There is a type of wealth that does not consist of silver or gold. It is a spiritual wealth, and that wealth is produced probably by three factors to be found in the spiritual world. Native ability in the physical world has oftentimes been described as "what we are born with." Therefore, native ability in the spiritual world is what God gives us in the second birth. Also, if the natural resources in the physical world are the things of which we manufacture our food and clothing, it is appropriate to say that the supernatural resources in the spiritual world are the things out of which we feed and clothe the soul. Neither of these two factors in the spiritual world can be produced—they are what God endows us with. Therefore, education as a factor of spiritual wealth is the only factor that can be increased.

If education is so important, in both the physical and the spiritual worlds, why are we not more interested in the promotion of education? The United States of America spends much more for whiskey than for education. The Church of the Nazarene in the Southeast is spending about one dollar out of one hundred dollars on Trevecca College. One of the reasons that we do not have a greater interest in education is that we do not know the value of it.

So let's make a part of our educational program the study of the value of education. Back of all the medical science of today are the college laboratories of yesterday. Back of the church of today are the Christian students in the colleges of yesterday. Moses was trained in all the wisdom of Egypt; Daniel attended the University of Babylon; Paul sat at the feet of Gamaliel; Martin Luther went to the University of Wittenberg; John Wesley was an Oxford student. I trust that we will invest more than ever before in Christian education.

Sophs Sponsor New Student Nite

The Sophomore Class sponsored the new student program Friday night, January 10, introducing the new students on campus.

Jack Phillips served as Master of Ceremonies for the evening. He interviewed several new students and presented some who participated on the program.

Those participating in the program included both new and old students. Bess Pearson, Mildred Pearson and Helen Burch sang two musical selections entitled "The Wheel of Fortune," and "Darkness on the Delta." Joe Moses and Wayne Clancy entertained with a comedy act. Herman Rouse, a new student, sang "How Great Thou Art." Kemp Higginbotham, sophomore class president, sang "I Believe." Carl Smith, a newcomer, played "The Pearly White City." Sylvia Young played an organ selection entitled, "The Bells of Saint Mary."

The program concluded after a discussion about things of interest to the new students between the Master of Ceremonies, Jack Phillips, and Dr. Adams, dean of the college.

The student body and faculty both extend a warm welcome to our newcomers on campus.

Former Student Press Victim

James H. (Vick) Vickers, 21, was a victim of a printing press accident January 23 at Baird-Ward Printing Company, Thompson Lane, when he became entangled in a rotary press. His right arm, shoulder, and part of his chest were pulled between the rollers. He was taken to St. Thomas hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mr. Vickers was born in Nashville and attended East High School, Trevecca High School, and Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, Cookeville, Tennessee.

Girls Play Hostess

Fellows, you had better begin right now to try to look your best. You are going to be on the accepting end of the date for a whole week, which will be the last week of January.

The junior class is sponsoring "The Woman Is Requested to Pay Week." For a whole week the girls will have the privilege of asking the fellows for a date. The nice thing about it (for the girls) is that the fellows are not allowed to refuse a girl except for an important reason, such as being married, or maybe being engaged or going steady.

The girls must open the doors for the gentlemen going in and out the buildings. In other words, girls, do unto the fellows as you would have them do unto you.

There will be a program Friday night to top off the week. This will consist of a skit directed by Roy Miller.

Girls, would you like a few ideas? Well, most of the fellows would really enjoy some refreshments in the T-Room after study hours. And then a big chicken dinner would hit the spot for that special fellow you are going to ask for a date.

Those who do not play according to the rules will be blacklisted. Once on the black list you cannot ask or receive any dates.

The U. S. Leads In A Number Of Fields

(Featured is an interview with Prof. Thomas Hemmerly, teacher in the Science Department at Trevecca Nazarene College.)

Prof. Tommy Hemmerly was graduated from Trevecca College with a degree in science. He received the M.A. degree from Peabody College. He has been teaching in the science department at T.N.C. for four years.

Prof. Hemmerly is now engaged in research work, being at present on the research staff for Vanderbilt University Medical School. This research party is trying to find the effect of antibiotics on Straphylococcus.

Following are several questions asked Prof. Hemmerly concerning the current development of rockets and missiles.

Q. Are we behind the Russians in the field of rockets and intercontinental missiles?

A. There is no doubt that in the field of rockets and intercontinental missiles, the Soviet Union is two or more years ahead of the U. S. and other western powers.

Q. Is the achievement of the Russian space satellite indicative of a general scientific superiority?

A. Yes and no. In this as in a few related fields, the Russians are ahead, but the U. S. leads in a number of others. Russia's strong points include theoretical mathematics, astronomy and physics. Research in chemistry has been at a much lower level than in this country. Russia's biggest lag has been in the biological sciences—cystology, bacteriology, biochemistry, genetics and medicine. These are the branches of biology in which the Western world has made great advances in the past twenty-five years, but which have been neglected by the Soviet Union.

For example, the knowledge the Russians have about vitamins was obtained from us. Antibiotics are almost unknown to their physicians, whose profession is not considered a high level one as it is in most countries. Although Russia has produced a number of important geneticists, their position at present was gravely damaged by Stalin who elevated Trofim Lysenko to a high position. Lysenko believed in the now disproved theory of "the inheritance of acquired characteristics," and other geneticists were ordered to support his theory.

Q. Professor, do you think a Christian college has a place in the field of science and technology?

A. Yes, there is a definite place for Christians in this field. The power and resources that are being discovered by current research can be of much more advantage to the lives of people if they are in the hand of Christian scientists.

Alumni News

President, Leon Chambers

Mr. Laurie Murary sends in a report from an Alumni meeting in Florida. I am sending the complete report out to you. I wish we could have more of this type of meeting. There may be few opportunities to have them on a tri-district Sunday school level, but we could have them on our districts.

At the tri-district Sunday school convention held in Jacksonville, Florida, in October, forty-three alumni, alumni wives and husbands, and friends got together for a time of fellowship. The group met at the Dodson Restaurant for dinner. Bob Benson acted as master of ceremonies. High points of the gathering were the singing of the Alma Mater, introductions by each former student, and a speech by George Privett. An extended period of fellowship was enjoyed following the dinner. Days at Trevecca were reminisced by the former students.

The following is a list of those who attended:

Mr. and Mrs. Laurie Murray, Betty Carrin, Mrs. Helen Vennum, Ann Luten, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Luten, Elmer Heaberlin, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mills, George McRae, J. H. Herndon, George Privett, Bill Robinson, H. P. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Benson, Herman Meeks, Bill Dale, Mrs. W. B. Langford, Mr. and Mrs. John Farmer, Margie Snodgrass, Martha Toms, Mrs. Ruth Huff, Mrs. Ruth Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Calvin, Paul Hess, Eugene Simpson, Gene Williams, Bill Anderson, Mrs. T. E. Geraldine, Mr. and Mrs. William Bridges, and Don Tucker.

I have received a letter from Carroll Bradley, Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston Park, Quincy 70, Massachusetts. He is asking where Boyd Davis is? I do not know, but I am sending this out for your help. If you know where Mr. Davis is, please let me know. I will then let Mr. Bradley know. Mr. Bradley is dean of men and director of athletics at Eastern Nazarene College.

If you would like to hear from some old friend, write me and I shall try to make some contact. If I have the address, I will send it to you.

Plato, Euripides, and Socrates are known for their philosophy. Philosophy of modern Greek makes ancient logic very weak; a sophomore, the mighty, speaks:

The more you study, the more you know; the more you know, the more you forget; the more you forget the less you know; so why study?

The less you study, the less you know; the less you know, the less you forget; the less you forget the more you know; so why study?

"I shall pass through this world but once. Any good thing that I can do, or any kindness I can show to any human being, let me do it now—for I shall not pass this way again."

—Old Quaker saying

Should I Be Allowed To Vote? 18-Year-Olds Ask

"If he is old enough to fight, he is old enough to vote." This trite stock phrase has been adopted at face value by many young people. Taking it as a declaration of right, they storm the fort of adult citizenship with strong determination. Arguing for a vote becomes a part of growing up. But let's examine the proposition.

In the first place, the fighting ability-voting ability idea is a fallacy. Entirely unlike skills are required.

Secondly, American boys are not now being drafted at 18. The law allows it, but the usual draftee is about 22. Enlistees at younger ages are not "forced" to become a part of our military machine.

How much information does an 18-year-old have that would enable him to vote intelligently? This is a valid question, and the answer is generally in the favor of the youthful voter. A modern high school course provides at least a measure of civic training, and the graduate is likely to know more of governmental processes than does the average adult.

However the naturally immature judgment of the teenager and his tendency to be swayed by emotion rather than fact are strikes against him. It is difficult for him to discern true issues and pledges from political palaver. The adult, though possibly less well trained, has had experience in making weighty decisions after consideration of conflicting interests and seems better qualified for the franchise.

Thus far only two states have given 18-year-olds the right of voting. All except Kentucky and Georgia have maintained that the legal age of 21 is the proper time to accord voting privileges.

TNC Marriage Poll Shows Increase

According to a recent magazine article, marriages among college students are more prevalent today than ever before.

A recent survey at Trevecca showed that there are one hundred and twenty-six married students enrolled. A break down of this figure shows 107 married men, and 19 married women. There are 11 married couples attending school together.

Most of the married students live in the trailer court provided by the school. Others live in apartments near the school.

Moreover, she guarantees she will not hurt you.

So, do as the lady says, "inject now and insure later."

The first of the year always brings new year's resolutions, especially to some students at T.N.C. A campus poll showed the following results.

Gary Briggs—to make an honor report.

Gwendolyn Pearson—to be a better witness for the Lord.

Carol Haworth—to stay up later at night and pay twice as many light checks.

Hal Arnett—to go on a diet.

Charlene Knox—to be in bed by 1:00 every night. (Night?)

Monty Lobb—to sleep more.

Carl Smith—to do better than I have ever done in the past, with the Lord's help.

Nelia Ann Lunn—to play ping pong better.

Tommy Moore—to be nicer to the girls.

Mrs. Orndoff—to be a better housemother.

Don Browning—to be more organized and authorized than I ever have been in the past.

and informed part of our citizenry controls elections because persons who are not actually mentally or educationally capable seldom take the initiative to become a voting citizen. Would the 18-year-old use his vote?

What is your idea? Should the 18-year-old be given a vote?

Basketball Games Underway Alphas Defeat Betas In First Game

The opening game of the season found the Alphas playing the Betas at Lucy Holt Gymnasium.

The Alphas led most of the game, fast-breaking the Beta five. Gunter and Poole led the fast-break and also led the scoring for the Alpha five—scoring 17 and 16 points respectively.

Jim Hampton was the workhorse for the Beta team, scoring 22 points and sweeping the backboards with rebounds.

After the smoke had cleared, the Alpha team was the victor, 48-34.

This promises to be one of the outstanding seasons in basketball for Trevecca, considering the reports on the first game.

THIS 'N THAT

... We hear there was some discussion in English Lit Class the other day about a Butch the Seventh. Miss Person said she had never heard of Butch the First yet. Why not ask Mildred P.; she might tell you.

... Do you suppose Dr. Adams takes his advice seriously about getting in a rut?

... I wonder who could have said, "I resolve to have just one date a month this year—that is, if there are three months in a week. Do you suppose his initials were J. P."

Why is a fire engine red?
A newspaper is read, too

Queen Mary is also a ship

There are fish in the ocean

A fire engine is always rushing

Campus Hero - 2500

A new type campus hero is emerging on the campus scene brought about by today's emphasis on science and technology.

Close your eyes and project yourself a few years ahead, and this is what you may see homecoming weekend at your alma mater:

The stands are filled with breathless fans.

The campus hero will be coming into the lab from the dressing room in a moment—dashing in his long, white, acid-pocked lab coat.

If he can lead the squad to another win in this week's experiment, old Trevecca Tech is sure to get a Fission Bowl bid.

Ah—here he comes now! Limping a bit from radiation sickness, but still a triple threat (chemistry, physics, mathematics).

The fans jump to their feet and cheer wildly.

Give 'em the atom, give 'em the atom, give 'em the atom, where?

Right in the pile, right in the pile, right in the pile, there!

Go-o-oo-thermonucleardevastationnnnnnn!

Rah! Rah! Rah!

Hypersonic whistle, 10 megaton boom.

Launch 'em! Launch 'em! Launch 'em!

Tom Swift, Tom Swift, he's our man.

If he can't blow up the lab, Dr. Hemur can.

Dr. Hemur, Dr. Hemur, he's our man.

If he can't blow up the lab, Harold Bradley can.

Harold Bradley, Harold Bradley...

Chew uranium, chew uranium, chew uranium, chew.
